As humans, we do have challenges, some of which weigh us down so much that we need somebody to lean on.

Educational Pathways International (EPI), the charitable organization that has students' needs and dreams at heart, was there when I so much needed this support.

Personally, I got more than I envisaged - financial support, moral support, academic support, and most importantly, how to nurture my dreams and bring them into fruition.

I have counted myself the luckiest among people and the most favoured among my own because, casting my mind back to who I was and how I am now, I have come to full realization that, not only did EPI help me rub shoulders with others but has actually shaped me to fit well into my long desired future.

Previously, I was thinking the pace at which I was achieving my dreams was well enough, but after my encounter with EPI, there has been a paradigm shift in my life, a dramatic turn towards a promising future.

EPI is the beacon light of hope that has shone for all students who seemed to have gotten to the end of the tunnel. EPI has had a great impact on my life, given me the chance to smile again and have an unflinching desire for an even brighter future. EPI has developed my intellect so much that I can boldly say I have no trace of fear to go forward into the global world.
