

FAWAZ SHANUN

My name is Fawaz Shanun. I studied Medicine at the University of Ghana. I was a privileged beneficiary of Educational Pathways International's (EPI) scholarship programme. I say privileged because it was an opportunity of a lifetime given to me. Had I not had the financial support from EPI I am not sure I would have come this far in education.

Without the burden of tuition fees, residential fees, study materials as other expenses, I was able to pay more attention to my academics and excelled. My social life as well as other aspects of my life have also seen improvement since I joined EPI family. EPI has been such a blessing in my life.

I chose to study Medicine to improve the lives of people by restoring good health and saving lives. I would like to be a Specialist in Obstetrics and Gynaecology. I believe women are at the core of everybody's lives and I believe taking care of them is tantamount to taking care of the whole world.

In the near future I would like to use this glorious opportunity to improve the lives of young ones who for one reason or the other find themselves in a deprived situation like I did. I would love to organize medical outreaches in some of the less privileged communities in Ghana and expand to other countries in Africa.

I would like to say a very big thanks to Educational Pathways International for such a glorious opportunity. I'm forever grateful.
