

VANESSA AGYEI-ESSIFUL

My name is Vanessa Agyei-Essiful. I offered BA Economics and Statistics at the University of Ghana. I have been a proud beneficiary of Educational Pathways International (EPI) for the past four years now.

I am very privileged to be part of Educational Pathways International because EPI helped my dream of acquiring a tertiary education easier and achievable. Life in the university would have been very tough for me without the scholarship from EPI because I am from a broken home of five which includes my three younger siblings, my mom and myself. My mom is a single parent taking care of my three siblings and I with the meagre income she makes from her petty trading. EPI relieved my mom of her burden by sponsoring me throughout my four years of study in the university.

EPI also helped in grooming me into a competent young lady through our workshops and meetings. I have acquired a lot of skills and informative ideas as well as how to relate, interact and also communicate with people for both the working field and personal life.

I chose to study BA Economics and Statistics because I like analyzing data on how to manage scarce resources for utmost satisfaction. Also, it is my dream to become the Governor of the Bank of Ghana in the next ten years. It is my dream to come out with a Foundation that will help provide quality education for teenage girls in my community and also organize forums to educate the young girls on adolescent reproductive health to help reduce the rate of teenage pregnancy in my community drastically.

I am forever grateful to Educational Pathways International for the life changing opportunity and I promise to make them proud. God bless EPI to impacts more gifted and needy students.

Long live EPI to continue its good works in making the world a better place.
