

JOHN HARRISON BEDIAKO

I want to say a big thank you to Educational Pathways International (EPI) for the opportunity given to me to go through my university education. Life wasn't easy for me and without the help received from this great organization I would not have been able to complete my education successfully.

My name is John Harrison Bediako a product from the University of Ghana (Legon). I offered BSc. Medical Laboratory Science. The impact EPI has made in my life is so enormous and has brought me a lot of benefits and advantages that has transformed my life tremendously. I have been able to overcome my fears and now very confident to speak in public and make presentations confidently through the public speaking lessons we were provided. Another interesting topic we were taken through was entrepreneurship, and how to design a plan for a successful life. This has guided me to start my own small business and volunteere with some Non-governmental organisations (NGOs) in Ghana to help the less privileged in my society. I have also met other brilliant beneficiaries in this great EPI family who are also determined to achieve great things in life.

I chose to read Medical Laboratory Science because it is the bedrock of health care in the world and it is my passion to help save the lives of people in my country and the world at large. Medical Laboratory Science is a very great programme that is very key in health care delivery. also want to further my education to become a Medical Doctor specialized in pathology.

I plan to work for a while after my national service and then continue my education in medical school. I will also be doing volunteering work to help the needy and less privileged in my society by providing basic health care and food items. My aim in life is to build very essential infrastructure in my community to help reduce the level of illiteracy and poverty in my community.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank EPI for the great help and generosity shown to me. I am really grateful and thankful you.